How nazism infiltrated Hollywood

SYNOPSIS

In 1932, Herman J. Mankiewicz—who would become famous ten years later for his screenplay for Citizen Kane—wrote The Mad Dog of Europe, an anti-Nazi project depicting the destruction of a German-Jewish family at the dawn of Hitler’s rise to power. This visionary script was ultimately buried by Hollywood studios, caught between diplomatic pressure and economic interests, and was never produced. Its story resonates powerfully with the increasingly dangerous fractures of our own time.

Every masterpiece has its flaws...

A true story-based period thriller about the man known as 'The Cézanne of fake money'.

SYNOPSIS

Set in post-war France, the film stars Reda Kateb as Bojarski, a real-life Polish refugee who became the most ingenious counterfeiter of his time. For over 15 years, he secretly produced near-perfect banknotes in his own backyard—so authentic they could fool the Bank of France itself. But his illusion catches the relentless attention of Commissioner Mattei (Bastien Bouillon), whose obsession with capturing Bojarski turns into a thrilling game of cat and mouse.

After the success of The Velvet Queen at the Cannes Film Festival, César award-winning filmmaker Vincent Munier returns with a new ode to nature.

SYNOPSIS

Delving deep into the woodland realms, where lynxes, bears, deer, owls, capercaillies, and other river creatures roam, Munier not only seeks to pay tribute once again to the visual splendor of nature but also to capture the forest's poetic sounds. The whispers of the woods are echoing the whispers passed from Munier's father to himself, and now to his own son. This becomes a heartfelt declaration of Munier's love for his father, intertwining familial bonds with the untamed beauty of the natural world.
