DEMAIN ON DÉMÉNAGE

2003 – 1h50 – Comedy – France
35mm & DCP 4K (OV, OV with English subs)

With: Sylvie Testud, Jean-Pierre Marielle

It's the story of a mother, who after the death of her husband, comes to live with her daughter with the piano, baggage and furniture in tow. It soon becomes a nightmare of clutter. The daughter can't manage to write her erotic story despite the judicious advice of her mother who knows quite a bit in the field while her daughter still has everything to learn. Thus they have to sell up and move. And that's when the round of visitors begins. And the tale takes a twist.

JOSÉ ALCALA

ALEX

2004 – 1h40 – Drama – France
35mm (OV, OV with English subs)

With: Marie Raynal, Lyes Salem, Adrien Ruiz

Alex is an independent woman, wild and tough, fond of men and of life in general. She wants to obtain the custody of her son, Xavier. To earn a living, she works on markets as well as on construction sites with Karim. She is busy renovating, on her own, a house in ruins on the outskirts of an isolated village, driven by the hope of living there with her son someday. These walls that she is rebuilding are like her life that she is putting back together, piece by piece, and trying to make stand up right.

MATHIEU AMALRIC

THE WIMBLEDON STAGE

LE STADE DE WIMBLEDON

2002 – 1h23 – Comedy Drama – France
35mm (OV with English & French subs)

With: Jeanne Balibar, Esther Gorintin, Anna Prucnal

A young woman sets off for Trieste to track down a man who died some time ago. She seeks out people who once knew him. Judging by the questions she asks, she seems mainly interested in the reasons why this man, an intellectual who was highly regarded in literary circles, never wrote anything himself. During the woman's various travels, the man's personality becomes clearer but the search less so, and the pretext for it fades to be replaced by a growing certitude. Will she remain at this stage?

FRÉDÉRIC ANDRÉI

PARIS-ROME

2007 - 1h25 - Comedy - France

With: Patrick Timsit, Charles Berling

As a strike paralyzes all of France, Marc Roux, an ambitious executive, is angry about the fact there is no train to Rome. On the railway platform, he encounters Vincent Disse. The two strangers share the steering wheel and engage in conversation during an impromptu car share. Marc and Vincent's sharing doesn't go beyond the car: one is an advocate of economic liberalism and the other believes that striking is a fundamental right.

PEAU D'HOMME, COEUR DE BÊTE

1999 – 1h37mn – Drama – France
35mm (OV)

With: Serge Riaboukine, Bernard Blancan

After fifteen years' absence, Coco returns to the family homestead. Five-year-old Aurélie already loves this stranger. Her older sister, Christelle, mistrusts him and foresees the chain of events that his intrusion will cause. The adults can't or won't see what's going on. Not Francky, not Alex, Coco's two brothers, not even their mother, the last hope for family unity. When tragedy befalls them, they fight each other like insects in a trap. The clan's explosion is inevitable. Maybe, deep down, it was actually necessary? For, it's from darkest obscurity that a glimmer of light can shine forth.

Hitler's NonAggression Pact with the Soviet Union has heightened the tension between local supporters of Trotsky and Stalin. Alfred attends a wild party being held by surrealists. There he meets Mila, a glamorous and uninhibited prostitute from the brothel called the "Sphinx". Alfred soon meets Mila's other lover too, Félix... An American comrade and her Belgian companion arrive to establish a direct link between the cell and Trotsky in Mexico. As prominent Trotskyites begin to die or disappear, Alfred and Mila marry. Has an agent of Stalin's secret police infiltrated the group?

Marseilles 1957: the city takes in numerous refugees from the Mediterranean region. Jeanne is among the Spanish "émigrés" who fled Franco's regime at the end of the thirties. She's married, has a little daughter, works at a soap factory and leads a quiet life. But one day, Jeanne is asked to distribute pamphlets at the factory where many Algerians also work. She accepts, and her action slowly develops into a commitment. She then encounters Ali Redjala, a National Liberation Front activist, who initiates her into the group and gives her new tasks to do. Jeanne's increasing involvement in the conflict brings her into closer contact with Ali, and both begin a relationship.

L'AUTRE CÔTÉ DE LA MER

1997 – 1h29 – Drama – France- 35mm (OV)

With: Claude Brasseur, Roschdy Zem

Georges Montero, the owner of an olive mill in Oran, is a “pied-noir”, an Algerian-born Frenchman, who chose to remain in Algeria after its independence in 1962. More than 30 years later, Georges comes to France for the first time in his life for a cataract operation. His surgeon, Tarek Timzert, ophthalmologist in a major Paris hospital, is a first-generation Frenchman who has cut himself off from his Algerian roots. The contact between the “pied-noir” and the tradition-blind Arab forces Georges to make a decision between remaining in France or going home to Oran, at peace with himself but at his own risk, as a civil war begins.

TEA IN THE HAREM

LE THÉ AU HAREM D'ARCHIMÈDE

1985 - 1h50 - Drama - France

With: Kader Boukhanef, Rémi Martin, Laure Duthilleul

Pat and Madjid struggle to survive in the housing projects, getting into all kinds of trouble and living by their wits. They finally land a job, but when Pat gets fired, his friend follows him out the door. The two then steal a car and head for Deauville... A strange kind of harem too! The girls here are neither princesses nor veiled virgins locked away in a lavish palace. They're lost girls, easy-going, who give themselves for a half-pint of beer or for a smile when tenderness is in short supply. This isn't a fairy tale, it's simply the strange life of Pat, Madjid, their friends, Malika... a strange life where tenderness is all that's left to survive on.

In Paris, she divides her time between the opera, where she's a great Swedish opera singer's dresser, and an amateur theater company. David, the company's director, hounds her into a corner: she cannot refuse, so stubbornly, to live and love again. Little by little, Sophie lets herself go - moved by his speeches and by the amorous games and the sensual atmosphere of Richard Strauss' "The Knight of the Rose," the opera currently in production. After each performance, Sophie notices a young, quiet man in the audience. She's convinced that he comes to see the beautiful diva. But, one day he talks to her, and Sophie at last becomes the lead in her own story

While flicking through a magazine, Ordo Tupikos, a sailor in his thirties, discovers that the young woman he'd once been married to for a few months has now become a movie star. The only problem is that Ordo can find no resemblance between the star and his former wife. This perturbs him so much that he decides to meet the star and sort out the mystery. This investigation that really isn't one becomes the base of a kind of interior journey that our hero will undertake through his own past.

Pomme and Pierre have been together for a long time. Their relationship has lapsed into a mechanical routine, caught up in a cycle of bickering and insults. They still want to believe in their relationship even if they are clinging to shallow declarations and an idea of kindness; their sense of humor in their relationship is still alive. But during one of their regular long walks in the forest, Pomme refuses to come home. All she wants is for him to pass her her jacket, her sweater, their bag, and leave. She disappears into the trees, without any fanfare or goodbyes...

Fontaine Leglou, thirty years old, has everything. A job as an anesthesiologist, an unfaithful love who she'll never leave for the lover who loves her faithfully, a cat and yet...Fontaine isn't the fearless type. And when her love asks for her hand in marriage, she doesn't know whether to say yes or no - in any event, she can say yes, but not without no. From then, nothing goes right for Fontaine Leglou. As Billy Wilder said, virtue isn't photogenic, characters must all have some lousy objective or another in the back of their minds.

1993 - 1h43 - Musical - France

The film takes the viewer on a journey west, from India to Spain, with stops along the way, to dramatize Romy's nomadic culture. This journey takes place over a year's time, from summer through fall and winter to spring. Gatlif holds his camera on the elemental essentials of this life: water, the wheel, fire, beasts of burden and of sustenance, colorful clothes, jewelry, musical instruments, song, and dance. Throughout, via song and dance, young and old celebrate, embody, and teach the cultural values of family, journey, love, separateness, and persecution.

Back from a military tour of duty, Kelli can't wait to rejoin her old life in the Rust Belt town she's always known. She's ready to experience the feelings of everyday life—the carpet under her bare feet, the smell of her baby's head. But slowly, her world comes to feel unfamiliar. Her friends love her but seem preoccupied with trifles. Her children need more focused attention than she can give, and as much as he tries, her husband Mike doesn't understand what she's been through. As Kelli's dislocation ripples through her world, she risks becoming an outsider. When she's thrown back on her own resources Kelli has to struggle to find a new way forward.

So Help Me God is the first ever feature length Strip-Tease documentary. Strip-Tease is a Belgian television documentary program created in 1985 by the Belgian RTBF. It became a popular and critical success, celebrated for coining a new idiom representing everyday life in Belgium and France.

The extraordinary, offbeat judge Anne Gruwez takes us behind the scenes of real life criminal investigations. For three years the satirical team behind the cult TV series Strip-Tease captured what no one had dared film before. Unapologetic and politically incorrect. You won't believe your eyes.

It's been four years since Sylvie's son Felipe was abducted by his father Pablo after their divorce. Having been let down by French officials who had succeeded in tracking them both down, only to let them escape again, Sylvie has now decided to take matters into her own hands by hiring a private detective. Pablo's accidental death puts her back on Felipe's track, now living with his aunt and grandmother in the Uruguayan countryside, Pablo's home country.

Mehdi, a social worker, disillusioned with his job, is moved by Sylvie's struggle and decides to leave everything to help her. Together they set out to Uruguay in order to bring her child back to France. Once there, she realises, by being the mother, she has all rights on her son, including the right to destroy the fragile but happy balance that has been built around him.

CAVANNA, HE WAS CHARLIE

CAVANNA, JUSQU'À L'ULTIME SECONDE, J'ÉCRIRAI

2015 - 1h30 - Documentary - France - DCP (OV, OV with English subs)

François Cavanna was one of the two founders of Charlie Hebdo and Hara Kiri, well known as an irreverent protagonist of the satirical press and a renowned author. Aged 90, he was still writing for the now sadly world famous newspaper. He died just one year before the tragic attack of January 2015. The film spans 2010 to 2015, featuring interviews of Cavanna, and those of Charlie Hebdo's best satirical journalists and illustrators such as Sine, Willem or Delfeil de Ton. With amazing and often hilarious archives, this documentary takes us through the history of his work and what freedom of speech really means. This is the story of the first man who could say « I am Charlie ... »

THE MAUREEN KEARNEY CASE

L'AFFAIRE MAUREEN KEARNEY

2022 - 2 x 52' - Documentary - France

On December 17, 2012, Maureen Kearney was found in her home, tied to a chair, the letter A carved into her abdomen and a knife handle inserted into her vagina. Was this attack related to her activities as the head union representative of a French multinational nuclear powerhouse? In the midst of a fight against her management to prevent technology transfers between France and China, she finds herself in the turmoil of an affair of state, against the backdrop of rivalry between two French industrial giants: AREVA and EDF. This documentary mini-series is a deeply human counter-investigation of the Maureen Kearney affair, a political and judicial mess that has shaken the nuclear world from 2012 to the present.

Antoine arrives in Tangiers from Europe to supervise the building of an audiovisual center in the city's free zone. He's in charge of speeding up the construction works, but the secret aim of his journey is to link up with Cecile, who he has continued to love with a silent passion for more than thirty years. Cecile has forgotten Antoine. She emigrated to North Africa and has been through the ups and downs of married life with Nathan, a Jewish-Moroccan doctor younger than herself. They have a son, Samy, who lives in Paris.

RAINBOW POUR RIMBAUD

1996 - 1h22 - Drama - France

With: Bernadette Lafont, Michel Galabru, Laure Marsac

This film follows the journey across Africa of two wild lovers who seem like lost children: Robert and Isabelle. At first, the tall, taciturn red-haired man and the radiant young woman set out in the footsteps of Rimbaud. But they soon lose their way in botanical gardens. In the end, this tragic yet funny love story turns into a modern-day Tristan and Iseult.

LOS PORFIADOS

2000 - 1h30 - Drama - Spain - 35mm (OV with French subs)

With: Mario Paolucci, German Da Silva, Ernesto Candoni

After losing his job and falling prey to desperation, the scissor-an knife-sharpener Artemio is seduced by Dino, an anarcho-individualist and ex-lecturer, to join an unknown terrorist group of somewhat murky objectives. Artemio will meet Captain Greatzipper, an unemployed military man; Domingo Acevedo, a gambler whose wife just left him after he bet and lost the family's possessions; Sir Bachetta, an Anarchist retiree obsessed with the libertarian utopia; and Eva, a young French girl under the care of Dino with whom Artemio falls desperately in love. Life within the group will change from the most fervent illusions, love and friendship, to bitter disappointment giving way to hatred and human vileness.

TWELVE THOUSAND

DOUZE MILLE

2019 - 1h51 - Drama - France

Frank gets kicked out of a junkyard where he's been working illegally. In his part of town, things are rough—there are no jobs. Although he's deeply attached to his life with Maroussia, Frank has to leave to find work elsewhere, far from home. Twelve thousand euros; that's the amount they both agree on—the amount he'll have to earn before he comes back. But will Frank return true to his word? Or at least true to himself?

Will he even come back at all...

EDEN LOG

2007 - 1h34 - Sci Fi - France - 35mm (OV)

With: Clovis Cornillac, Vimala Pons

A man wakes up deep inside a cave. Suffering from amnesia, he has no recollection of how he came to be here nor of what happened to the man whose body he finds beside him. Tailed by a mysterious creature, he must continue through this strange and fantastic world. Enclosed, Tolbiac has no other option to reach the surface than to use Rezo Zero, secret observing cells in this cemetery-like abandoned mine. He embarks upon this journey guided by the roots of a plant.

This is the story of the rise of a forgotten man, sometimes informed by the archives of abandoned laboratories which punctuate this subterranean network, and at other times by his own strangely amplified instinct. During his search for the surface, Tolbiac must uncover the secret of what once lived in this world; but has this "mystery" truly left?

A small town in the mountains. A single hospital.

While failing a suicide attempt in the nearby forest, a night nurse (Frederique, 24) seriously wounds a teenager (Marco, 13) who lands in her ward.

No one saw her with her rifle. Everybody thinks of a crazy hunter. In a panic, Frederique realizes that she is going to have to tend to this boy whose aggressiveness has already terrorized her colleagues. While these two "savages" learn to tame one another, Frederique deliberately leaves a trail of hints that will lead Marco to imagine the unimaginable : this gentle nurse who cares for him is the one that almost killed him...

BEING JACQUES CHIRAC

DANS LA PEAU DE JACQUES CHIRAC

2006 - 94 min - Documentary - France

An homage to the greatest French actor. Since 1967, Jacques Chirac has appeared everyday on television : millions of hours of automatic gestures, jerky speeches and feverish cavalcades. What if, in this crucial period of his life and mandate, he had decided to say it all, to restore the truth? Karl Zéro and Michel Royer explored forty years of footage and have made the President tell (through the voice of an imitator) the meaning of this inexhaustible quest of power.

Clélia, a young and talented photographer, is hired by a Canadian scandal-sheet press baron, Lucien Macroï, with a view to gilding his group image. A man of power, he is surrounded by a veritable entourage made up for the most part of people of dubious intention. In opposition to this dissolute milieu, Clève, a 35-year-old editor, honest and concerned for a certain literary quality, falls head over heels in love with Clélia. Under this spell of Clèves charming awkwardness, Clélia agrees to marry him. However, her work leads her to meet Nemo, a photographer. Sharing this love of the image, of the stolen instant, their complicity blossoms into a passionate bonding love affair, yet lived out only through photography.
